Doctor Buell lived, worked and truly loved this community. He spent his life serving. We couldn't possibly count the hours spent, the miles traveled, the babies delivered, the house calls made, the families encouraged and comforted but we can recognize what he gave to us as a community and honor his memory.

Those of you who knew him well know how much he loved nature and how he enjoyed his flowers and gardening. With that in mind, Clay City USA Foundation, Inc. has determined to establish a walking park in his memory. We hope it will be a legacy to him and an encouragement to others to love this community as he loved it, give as he gave, and enjoy the beauty and simplicity of nature as he did.

It is a work in progress. All proceeds from this evening's Chocolate Walk are earmarked to begin this project. Join us as we work toward creating a living legacy to Doctor Buell that everyone in the community can enjoy.

Chocolate Walk Headquarters

Clay City USA Foundation Inc.

- Clay City USA Foundation, Inc (CCUSA) began in 1999 with the foresight of Dr. Forrest Buell. We began by sending a questionnaire to all 47841 Zip Code residents, those who would benefit from the development of Clay City and the surrounding area. A good response of community members led to a public meeting with approximately 100 in attendance. It was a very productive meeting, with people voicing their opinions and ideas.

- CCUSA and Clay City residents coined and copyrighted the term 'Mayberry of the Midwest'. Publicity from this led to the town's appearance on NBC's Today Show.

- CCUSA purchased the former Collins Building in 1999. Using organization and grant funds the building was restored for use as a branch extension of the Brazil Public Library. Unfortunately the grant expired and the library closed due to lack of funding. The community rallied around the efforts of some dedicated individuals and in 2008 an all-volunteer library opened in the same building. All books, materials, and time are donated from the local community.

- CCUSA purchased an old downtown gas station building in 2000 and restored the facility making it the Clay City Welcome Center. It is recognized as a great start to our goal of downtown restoration.

- Community events sponsored: movies and entertainment downtown, Hometown Holidays which includes an outdoor Christmas Tree lighting, carriage rides, and downtown Christmas decorations.

CCUSA continues to work with the community and the Town Board. Our recent project improved the downtown street scape with decorative banner poles and seasonal flags. Next steps are to build a walking trail and work with the Office of Community and Rural Affairs for downtown planning.

Clay City USA meets the third Tuesday of the month and is open to all. Please see Elizabeth Wiley if you would like added to our distribution email list to receive reminders of upcoming meetings.

5 Tips for a Better Walking Workout

Tip #1: Know your heart-rate training range. You get the most out of your cardio workout when your heart is in your own personal "training range," which determines how hard you should work for light, moderate, and high-intensity levels. Joan Pagano, a certified trainer in New York City and author of Strength Training Exercises for Women, suggests using the traditional, easy method of subtracting your age from 220, which should give you a rough estimate of your maximum heart rate (EMHR) -- that is, how fast your heart will beat during all-out exertion. "Since nobody can sustain this level of exercise for long, we take 60 to 90 percent of EMHR to develop a training range with a continuum of low to high intensity," says Pagano.

Tip #2: Think short, quick steps. That's the key to a faster pace, and the faster you walk, the more calories you burn. "When you take steps that are too long, you have a choppy stride, which slows you down," says Sarah-Lorge Butler, author of Walk Your Butt Off. "But short, quick steps allow for a smooth, rolling stride and make it easier for you to pick up some speed. "

Tip #3: Land on your heels. A little bit of attention to your walking technique can help make it more fun and comfortable, says Lorge-Butler. Instead of landing with your whole foot -- and making a clomp, clomp, clomp sound -- let your heel be the first part of your foot to hit the ground. Focus on keeping your toes up as you land, she says, and then smoothly roll from your heel to toe.

Tip #4: Switch up your surfaces. Try a dirt trail one day, a road the next, a treadmill on rainy days, and maybe even a rubberized track. "By changing the surface, you'll reduce the risk of injury and keep yourself from getting stuck in a rut," says Lorge-Butler.

Bonus: When you take your walking workout to a track, it's fun to see how fast you can go on a measured distance.

Tip #5: Enlist a buddy. Just like playing against someone a little better than you in basketball will improve your game, walking with someone a little faster than you will help you burn more calories -- and get you to work toward sustaining a better pace, says NYC-based trainer and fitness expert Larysa DiDio. "That person will make you work harder, burning more calories," she says. "This also keeps you accountable so you actually stick to your workout. A little competition is fun, too."
